Le Grand Meaulnes ...remains still – the most delicate rendering so far achieved in literature of the romantic adolescent consciousness: with the enchanted lost domain to escape to in the opening part of the novel and a tale of idealistic aspirations and self-sacrifice to follow, it could not fail to win over a vast reading public appalled or bemused by the social and moral confusion of the post-war world. Spine lettered by E. Gordon Craig

Books lettered on the spine similar to this are known especially from the period of 1913-1914 while Craig was in Florence, operating the School for the Art of the Theatre at the Arena Goldoni. Most similar books from this period are thought to have been rebound by a local binder and then lettered by either E. Gordon Craig or his son Edward Arthur Craig who was his father's assistance in Florence until 1929.

A note in Edward Gordon's hand, on the inside of the rear original wrapper, dates the book from 1933 Paris indicating that he lettered the spine himself, since his son was no longer in Florence. (see full description).

Original edition. Edition de tête: copy # 1 of 12 copies published on Japon (entire edition 212 copies: 12 copies on Japan paper as this; 200 numbered copies). 8vo (6" x 9 1/2"). In an elegant "Parnassian" binding of black morocco with a multitude of cut and colored leathers that include symbolist designs. Signed Charles Meunier (Parisian binder, disciple of Marius Michel who flourished in the late 19th century).

Edmond Haraucourt (18 October 1856 Bourmont - November 1941 Paris) was a French poet and novelist. His first published work La Légende des Sexes. Poèmes hystériques appeared under the pseudonym of Le Sire de Chambley. According to some historians this work influenced Apollinaire in his composition of Calligrammes, 1918.

Haraucourt was a disciple of Leconte de Lisle founder of the so-called Parnassian school. This group of writers was named after the Symbolist journal Parnasse Contemporain in which they appeared (1866, 1869-71, 1876). Associated with Baudelaire, Verlaine and Mallarmé, the Parnassians used careful versification, exact expressions, objectivity and avoided sentimentality. This binding by Meunier reflects the restrained brilliance and exact organization of the Parnassian style

- 11 Lemonnier, binder . Heures Royales dédiées à Madame la Dauphine contenant les Offices qui se disent à l'Église pendant l'Année en Latin et en François. Nouvelle edition. Paris: Guillaume de Hansy, 1770. 3 ½" x 5 ¼". 563pps with a frontis of the Dauphine at prayer and two other engravings within the text. Bound in contemporary red morocco with both covers decorated at the center with a mosaic of a pomegranate in green and brown. Each corner bears a small mosaic of a tulips in green and gold. The borders show a roll of a floral image with bees and dragonflies above. The spine has five raised bands with title "Heures de Cour" in gilt over green panel and floral motifs repeated in the spine panels. Ownership initials surround the central image of a pomegranate on the front cover. The letter "B." in gilt is incised at bottom of the rear cover. Linen endpapers, bookplate of S. Antoine de P. Edges worn, a few minor scuffs; otherwise a rich and lustrous binding.

This type of mosaic binding popular in mid-18th century France is variously attributed to l'atelier de Louis Douceur or to the Ateliere a la Tulipe or the Atelier aux Bouquets de Fleurs (See Michon pp51-51). The most persuasive research, however, shows that the binding is done by the Paris atelier of Louis-François Lemonnier (fl 1737-1776).

20 Vivaldi, Antonio . Giustino dramma per musica. [Libretto] Giustino dramma per musica [Livret] da recitarsi nel Teatro dell'i Sig. Federico Capranica nel carnevale dell'anno 1724: Roma: Bernabo, 1724. Sonneck, 568; Sartori 12373.

Giustino shows Vivaldi on the verge of modernizing his style while summing up the most individual achievements of his earlier years. According to the musicologist Reinhard Strohm, the libretto, along with an original autograph score still in existence, are the two final authorities for the study and possible reconstruction of Vivaldi's Giustino. He writes that the printed libretto of 1724 "must have appeared only a few days before the first night, and it must have aimed at reproducing the text precisely as it was sung. . . . Although the libretto differs in many major and minor details from the autograph [score] it does not reflect a different stage of revision. Both originated and were used simultaneously . . . their divergences result from the different function and intended readership"

Strohm adds, the libretto for the audience aimed to print not only the recited text, but also to provide an explanation of the stage sets. Furthermore the libretto was to present the text in an orthographically correct, literary fashion, whereas the text within the musical score was not read by the public, only heard. "Therefore [the score] lacks stage directions and many details of punctuation which were not necessary for the performers. The libretto is a literary text of the opera which its author hoped to
